IRIS GARDENS
CINCINNATI, OHIO

SUMMER 1940

SPRING 1941

FOREWORD

The Iris Season in 1940 was two weeks later than usual, due to the long cold and wet spring. Last year the Iris were not in bloom on Decoration Day, while this year they were in full bloom and in their prime for this occasion.

We have eliminated many varieties, and are growing only those that are in demand. Many California varieties must be grown with good drainage to insure success here, and often large heavy roots do not stand our changeable winter temperatures. Roots grown in conditions approaching our own, make the best showing in this locality.

Garden Clubs are always welcome, and we endeavor to make their visit pleasant and instructive, for after all, more knowledge can be gained by viewing plants in bloom than by merely reading about them.

We are also maintaining exhibition plantings of fine hemerocallis, narcissi, peonies and poppies. Arrange to see them in blooming time. A separate list of any of the above, classified as to color, will be sent on request.

General Culture

Sun and good drainage are essential for bearded Iris. They like a neutral to alkaline soil, and shade from the afternoon sun will benefit many varieties of delicate coloring. Iris will not flower in deep shade. Tectorum, a crested species, can stand more shade than most of them. All beardless Iris will thrive in moist places and a soil tending to acidity will help their growth.

Plant bearded Iris with the rhizome well covered with earth, and press down firmly. Water only enough to keep from drying out. Beardless Iris can be planted a little deeper, and should be kept moist, until they are established. Cultivate to keep down the weeds.

Any well balanced commercial fertilizer, not high in nitrogen can be used for bearded Iris. Superphosphate and bone meal are also beneficial. Well rotted cow manure can also be worked in, and is especially helpful for the beardless types.

Diseases

Leaf-spot does little or no injury to plants. Removing old foliage and burning it helps to control the trouble. If bearded Iris are affected by root rot often due to very wet weather, cut out the soft tissue, dust with copper carbonate, and dry a little in the sun, before replanting. To keep borer in check cut out all affected sheaths early in the season. Replant after blooming time and watch for the worm and kill it. Burning over the base of the sheath in late fall or winter helps to kill many eggs. Wind cloth around a stick soaked with kerosene, and after lighting, work quickly around the plants. Do this on a day when the dead foliage is fairly dry.

TERMS

Please Read Carefully Before Ordering

Cash with order, or roots will be sent C. O. D., if a 25 per cent deposit is made. A 10 per cent discount is allowed on orders of $15.00 or over. This does not apply to collections or bargain groups, but on one or three of a kind. No order accepted for less than $1.00. On orders amounting to less than $2.00 please add 25 cents for postage and packing. Ohio customers add Sales Tax.

Shipments—Bearded Iris can be shipped from July 1st until late September. Spring planting is not recommended, unless done quite early. Beardless Iris are planted in early Spring or Fall.

Guarantee—All stock true to name, and vigorous and healthy. After a safe delivery, our responsibility ceases, and yours begins.

Postage—All items prepaid, on orders of $2.00 and over in the United States only, except in dozen lots and in larger quantities. It will be to your advantage to request when ordering that shipments be sent express collect, for in such a case larger roots and generous count of the less expensive varieties can be given. When making remittances in stamps, do not send over the three cent denomination.

Location—We are located on the Three C Highway (State Route No. 3) about ten miles from the business center of Cincinnati, and easily accessible from all parts of the City. You are cordially invited to visit the gardens at any time.

New 1940 Introductions

The following Ayres seedlings are quite distinct, and have a carrying color in the garden.

ALIGHT (LM 36) Flowers measure Five and One half inches from tip to tip. The overlapping amber white S., are faintly crinkled; the smooth broad, drooping F., milk white, with a faint greenish veining and a wire edge of amber white. The haft is a blaze of color, chrome yellow on a white ground, the edge a solid color, extending beyond the deep gold beard. A lovely Iris with a striking haft and beard coloring. Good form, heavy substance, branches nicely. Stock limited. $7.00

BALL O'GOLD (LM 36) The frilled, domed S., are a deep golden yellow, the smooth, drooping F., a deep lemon yellow, with a pale mark on center of falls. Beard red gold. The lemon colored haft is reticulated with deep greenish gold, almost a solid color. A smooth sparkling, deep yellow, of nearly uniform coloring. $6.00

One each of the above novelties for $11.00

Beardless Iris

The best time to plant them is in early spring, or from late August to early October. The rhizome should be planted one inch below the surface, and kept moist until growth starts. They like a soil tending toward acidity, and old manure is a good fertilizer. Give them plenty of water, but do not have it standing on the crown in winter.
